

FCC was established to- first & foremost -insure that radio broadcasting serve it's public...why has the FCC ignored its responsibilities?

As an avid music lover and active blues advocate, I believe it to be of grave neglect on the part of FCC to have allowed such obvious & unfair ownership take over by so few, enabling them to control: radio playlists, top chart lists, documented sabotage in venue business deals, and anything but competitive opportunity, much less, any public interest being met.

It's time to reassess our government's need of FCC's failed application and the damage done by such negligence.

Please demand that FCC re-examine its principal purpose of being created and put a cap on it.

Sincerely Blue,
Susan C. Parker
